Hoot Gibson in

"Chip of the Flying U"

King of the Western Range

In a gay, action and gorgeous picture of the wide open spaces. A different, more entertaining story with many novel and startling twists, but the same old, picturesque, smiling, rarin' to go cowboy artist and he's afraid of women until a lady doctor visits the ranch. Then thrill follows thrill in a merry mixup of dare devil riding, stirring action and gay romance. Hoot fights, rides, laughs and loves and wins the lady in a manner that makes this his finest, speediest and most absorbing action. It's the kind of Hoot Gibson picture that keeps you cheering all the time.

Flower Show Brilliant Affair

The third annual flower show, under the auspices of the Champion Women's Institute was held in the United Church, and the large crowd which attended was treated to a wonderfully brilliant display, exceeding the many previous shows held in every way. One basket entered in the variety of flowers section contained twenty-two different kinds: petunias, phlox, asters, pansies, California poppies, red poppies, sweet peas, snapdragons, candytuft, roses, dahlias, nasturtiums, mums (three varieties), cypripedium, night scented flowers, Zinnia, bachelor buttons and three kinds unnamed. The flower show was opened by the president, Mrs. E. G. Milfin, and Mrs. F. C. Alcock district director of the W.I. made a very appropriate address, taking as her theme the wonders of flowers. She likened their response to training to that of children, and urged that the best of attention be given both to brighter homes and to a better country. Miss K. Pharis, Miss F. Bond and little Edna Marshall contributed plants, some of which were much appreciated.

Tea was served throughout the show and was largely patronized by those in attendance. The girls again came forward in their ever willing way and took charge of the tea tables to general approval, and thanks are due them for their efforts.

The W.I. wishes to thank Miss Bond and Committee, Mrs. Watkins and Committee and Mrs. Ulrich for their willing services, also Mrs. Woodhull and B. M. McRae.

The judges were Mrs. C. Davis and Mrs. H. Heigensauer, and their task was no easy one with so many beautiful flowers on display.

Howard E. Smith and family wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who so kindly came to their assistance in their recent bereavement, also the donors of the beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cook returned from an extended auto tour to their old home in Ontario this week. We always thought this was one of the healthiest parts of the country, but when we see some of the returning tourists, it leaves room for doubt.

Dr. and Mrs. Freeze returned home from their vacation, which was spent at points to the south, on Thursday last, and to judge by the doctor's appearance must have had a particularly good time, as he looked stout enough to make a prize fighter.

The Service Garage has installed a big improvement in an electric rectifier. You may now have your battery charged almost while you wait, and the saving in cost is also a big item.

Extensive improvements to the Bowman farm residence are in progress, which will include the modernizing of the entire premises.

OBITUARY

Viola May Hobbs was born at Ontario, Wisconsin, on July 7th, 1870, and passed away at her home on August 24th, 1927, at the age of 57 years, 1 month, and 18 days. In February, 1892, she was united in marriage to Howard E. Smith, of Viroqua, Wisconsin. To this union five children were born, one passing away in infancy. The greater part of her life was spent in and around Ontario and Viroqua. In April 1914 she, with her husband and family moved to Champion, Alberta, where they have resided for the past thirteen years. About five years ago her health began to fail and all that medical skill could do was of no avail. She was a devoted wife and loving mother, kind to her neighbors and ever ready to help the sick and needy. She leaves in four children, Dean and Howard of Champion; Harry E. of Calgary, and Mrs. E. L. Davis of Tokoa, Washington; three grandchildren, five sisters and a number of other relatives, also a host of friends both in the Champion community and her old home.

MISS M. FERGUSON SURPRISED

A splendid evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ferguson on Thursday, August 25th, when thirty-two young folks came in on them for a surprise party in honor of Miss Marjorie Ferguson, who is leaving for Lethbridge to take up college work. Marjorie, not suspecting a thing, was taken for a car ride and on arriving home was highly surprised to be met at the gate by some thirty of her school friends. The evening was spent in singing, dancing and games. Lunch was served at midnight and Marjorie was presented with a Parker pen and pencil set by the visitors. After lunch more dancing was indulged in until about 1.15, and all left in a happy mood, full of mirth and merriment, and showering Marjorie with congratulations on taking up college work.

The guests included the following: Misses Lois Philpott, Thelma Williamson, Margaret Carlson, Florence Rich, Ida Grewer, Rheta Campbell, Leola Johnson, Ida Stoddard, Melba McGillivray, Foyes McGillivray, Merle McKay, Lenora McKay, Olive Lusk, Maxine Fisher, Fern Bond, Katherine Cowell.

Messrs. Harold Stephenson, Donald Bond, Roy Lechin, Sanford Anderson, Ronald Blusson, Alonzo Galloway, Gordon McLean, Walter Bretall, M. Gaetz, Arthur Hunt, Norman Carlson, Martin Matlock, George Lyons, Edwin Fisher, Harry Matlock, Harry Ferguson.

Geo. Walden returned recently from Oregon, where he had been attending the funeral of his father whose death occurred on August 20th at an advanced age. There were seven brothers present at the funeral.

Art. Anderson, of Calgary, and his wife were visitors here on Monday, and were receiving congratulations from many friends here.

Mrs. Duane Chamberlain left last week to join Mr. Chamberlain at Kirriemuir, where the latter is in charge of an elevator.

J. D. McDougall left for Calgary on Wednesday morning to have another X ray taken. Mr. McDougall has not been well for the past three months.

Mrs. Adam Ferguson had her hand painfully crushed on Monday, catching it in a power wringer. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Harry Smith, of Calgary, will remain at home during the harvest this year.

An Appreciation Of Mrs. F. C. Alcock

(Mrs. F. C. Price in Lethbridge Her-ald.)

Mrs. F. C. Alcock, of Champion, the new provincial W.L. director for the southern district, is an Englishwoman—one who came to Canada 18 years ago to take up life on a farm near Champion.

Prior to that time, and for ten years in her new home she had never belonged to a woman's club, and had literally lived up to the old adage that "Woman's place is in the home." Then one day some eight years ago she attended the meeting of the Women's Institute in Champion, when Miss Isabel Noble of Dayland, the provincial president, was speaking. She became interested and enthused at once, seeing especially what this organization was doing for the lonely farm women. She joined and became an active worker.

Next year she was president of the Champion branch and was sent as the "official delegate" to the annual convention in Calgary. That fall she was elected constituency convenor of the Little Bow constituency, and has held this office continually ever since. At the annual convention this year she was elected unanimously to the office of district director, which is the honor of being on the new Provincial Executive.

It was the success of her work as constituency convenor that earned her the higher office. Little Bow is the heaviest constituency in W.L. work in the province, there being 14 branches and four girls' clubs.

Mrs. Alcock was indefatigable in her work and always made it a point of paying each branch a visit every year, bringing with her renewed inspiration and enthusiasm. She kept every branch interested and working. One of her chief ideals, which she never failed to urge, was the interest in the newcomer, and those things that would brighten the lot of the rural woman. She emphasized child welfare and help to the young expectant mothers. She encouraged secretaries to write their problems to her and if any special or difficult work came up, often she surprised the branch by paying an unexpected visit and giving them encouragement in person.

Because she, too, had been a stranger in a strange land, and a lonely newcomer, she was able to extend a helping hand especially to those from England, her former country.

"When I came out West," said Mrs. Alcock, help was plentiful and inexpensive in England. Therefore I found the work on an Alberta farm very hard. I also missed having a church.

"In the 18 years I have been in this country I have learned to love it. Of late years my husband has rented the farm and we now live in town at Champion.

"All I ask of this new office is that I have the same respect as I have had in six pleasant years as constituency convenor."

Claims Editorial Was Misleading

Editor Champion Chronicle:

Dear Sir,
In reading the editorial in your valuable paper of date the 11th inst. re the Carmangay fair.

Please let me correct this from by saying that it is very misleading to the public in general and to the directors of the Carmangay fair. For in the first place the writer sent no less than six large posters to business men generally in Champion and asked them to kindly post them up a dozen or more prize lists were circulated to citizens in Champion and district a number of complimentary tickets and other advertising relative to our fair.

I wish to point out to you that a very considerable of our prizes were won by patrons from Champion district and as this is the only fair held on this line of Railways have always striven to make it a success that can only be accomplished by the interest taken by the public in general and to say that we do not desire any patrons from Champion and district is not true as the competition is open to any exhibitors in the province of Alberta including Champion.

Please give this item the publicity in your valuable newspaper. It deserves and oblige yours truly,

High Grade Twines and Cordage Now Manufactured From Hemp Grown In Western Canada

A new and splendid step, alike in Western Canadian agriculture and in the industrial manufacturing of that territory, was taken in May when at Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, a variety of twines and cordage manufactured from hemp grown in Western Canada was turned out and shipped to a number of provincial markets. The new industry, employing only thirty hands and capitalized at $200,000, locally incorporated, may appear as a small one, but the event is full of interest and moment in inaugurating an activity with such possibilities to the agricultural and manufacturing industries of Western Canada and one of which there is no need. The plant at Portage la Prairie is of improved and modern construction, and the foundation the new industry can confidently be expected to process ample.

The actual manufacture of medium and heavy wrapping twine in Western Canada marks the culmination of years of experimentation and other effort. It has been known for several years that Western Canadian soil in many sections was suited to the growing of hemp. Many experiments had been made, and in 1915, at the Agricultural College and Professor Harrison of that institution gives corroboration authority to the statement that the province could produce the hemp likely to be required for local and immediate markets. Experiments conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway in Southern Alberta likewise established the suitability of lands in the irrigated sections to this crop. Crops were raised in 1915 and various twines actually manufactured at Eastern plants—the way to industrial manufacture involving the use of hemp coming into the picture. Altogether the success attained left no reason why the Prairie Provinces should not have a hemp growing industry and engage in the manufacture of products imported into the country to the extent of many millions of dollars annually.

After being satisfied that ample supplies of raw material could be produced within reasonable distance of the point of manufacture at Portage la Prairie the Manitoba Cordage Company imported hemp seed of the best quality which it was offered to farmers with a guaranteed price per ton of straw delivered at the factory. A field man in the company and the provincial government, which has throughout exhibited a keen interest, chose the land and inspected it in the fall of 1915. During 1916 approximately 700 acres of land in Manitoba were sown to hemp, most of this about the Portage plains, in close proximity to the factory, with smaller areas at Morris, Clonabrook, Roland, Elm Creek, Carleton Place, Neepawa, and Portage la Prairie. This year it has been planned to seed 800 acres.

Tularemus success attained would indicate that hemp will grow in practically any part of Manitoba. Crops in the Portage plains ran from six to ten feet in height, despite an unfavorable season. The average yield was 2½ to 3 tons to the acre, and harvesting and retting were successfully carried out. Hemp yields, according to report, returned Manitoba farmers an average of about $50 per acre. Hemp growing and manufacture have been successfully inaugurated in Western Canada, and judging by all the preparations made can be expected to make progress from now on.

The rough and polished twine is of good appearance and it was stated that, like for like, the breeding strain of best grown product is much the market at competitive prices. An actual test proving this, and those who have used it claim it is longer, stronger, cheaper and easier to handle than other twines of similar size. Two, three and four ply twines polished and stretched and rough, heavy, unpolished twines are being manufactured.

The twine is being placed on the market and is having success in Winnipeg. Selling at the same price as other twines and the type of product, no difficulty is experienced in disposing of all their present output of twine per day, and Western Canada can easily take care of the output of present plant.

The path has for some time been cleared for engagement in hemp manufacture in Western Canada and successful experimentation and demonstration has valued upon price, enterprise and capital. With the successful launching of the industrial side there is no reason why the industry should not now succeed rapidly.

and Free Canada to a larger extent of her dependence upon foreign sources for these very necessary commodities. Already, it is understood, preparations are under way for an extension in the practice of Manitoba.

Dates For Digging Potatoes

Early Digging Appears To Furnish Most Productive Seed
An interesting experiment with the object of determining if the stage of maturity of potatoes when dug has an influence on the yielding ability of the seed has been made on the Fredericton, New Brunswick, Experimental Station. Green Mountain potatoes planted on May 16, 1925, were dug on August 17, and on September 20. In 1926 the seed dug early produced at the rate of 312 bushels of marketable potatoes per acre and that dug late 270 bushels per acre. In a similar experiment in the previous year the Green Mountains dug early also produced a better crop than those dug late but the difference was only 10 bushels per acre.

Our Age Of Progress

Last Century Has Seen Greater Changes Than Any Other
The history of the world commences in the memory of those ancient people few in number, in which some part of the world has risen above itself and burst into flower or fruit. We ourselves happen to live in the midst or possibly in the dawn of one such period. More change has probably taken place in daily life, in ideas, and in the general aspect of the earth during the last century than during any other four centuries since the Christian era, and this fact has tended to make us look on rapid progress as a normal condition of human race, which it has never been.

A Smart Frook For The Miss Or Small Woman

Delightfully girlish is the frock shown here and would be smart if fashioned of either woolen material or silk. The skirt has box-pleats in front and is joined to the bodice having tucks at each shoulder. The long sleeves above the elbow are fitted with shaped cuffs, and a trim turn-down collar follows into the dress. The back is in one piece and a shaped belt achieves the two-piece model. A smart note of contrast may be introduced in the collar, cuffs and belt. No. 1227 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Also 18 regular and 20 years. Contrasting material is used. Yard 29-inch additional is required. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Outbreak Of Foot And Mouth Disease

Holding Up Importations Of British Cattle And Sheep

Importations of cattle and sheep from England are held up for at least another 90 days following the announcement from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, that there has been a new outbreak of foot and mouth disease in England at Winton, Weymouth, Staffordshire.

Many permits have been issued for the importation of pure-bred cattle, sheep and swine from Great Britain this season up to date, and this new outbreak will necessitate the holding up of these importations, insofar at least as those from England are concerned, until that part of Great Britain is once again declared free from this dread disease.

In the case of importations coming from Scotland it is not the intention of the department to stop importations, although the fact that the stock being shipped from Scottish ports has not been in England within 60 days of export, has been in contact with cattle coming from England within that time. Further, it will be required that bores carrying such stock be sealed out, and such stock at English ports after landing.

Migration Scheme

Ex-Officers Of The Army, Navy And Air Force To Settle In B.C.

A migration scheme under which ex-officers of the army, navy and air force are to be settled in British Columbia is being organized by the Overseas League, according to Henry Cowan, B.P., member of the league's council, who is in Vancouver on his way to New Zealand and Australia.

In October, Secretary McLellan, of the Y.M.C.A. headquarters at Toronto, who is in charge of the association's migration work, will come to the coast to go into the matter. The league is arranging many details of the scheme with the Y.M.C.A. Sir Henry stated.

British Columbia is the only part of the empire in which the scheme is being carried out, he said. Conditions here were considered peculiarly suitable for the settlement of this type of migrants, all of whom have incomes of varying size and some of whom have a small amount of capital. It is intended that the settlers should take land, probably in small holdings.

Great Britain Had Super-Centennaries

Occur Or More Said To Be Over 130

When They Died
It is claimed on behalf of Zoro Aza, a Kurd living at Constantinople, that he is the oldest living man in the world. He says he is 145 years old. The case of Zoro Aza, the Kurd, who was a laborer when the Earl of Arundel brought to London in 1653 at the age of 125, has been cited as proof that Zoro Aza's claim is really correct. Since Old Parr's time there have been a dozen or more in England, and Great Britain who were said to have lived to the age of 120 or more, but the last of those, most of whom were Irish, died in 1849.

She—"Not at all. I'd be furious with myself if I agreed to it."

Spirit Of Co-Operation

The Kind That Makes The World A Better Place In Which To Live

A spirit of co-operation which exists between the business men of Craig, Sask., and the farmers of the surrounding district as demonstrated in "graveling back" held recently is highly commendable and should prove a source of inspiration to the people of Saskatchewan and Western Canada generally.

The graveling back is an annual event at Craig. Farmers donate their teams and their time to help gravel to surface the roads of the town, and the townfolk, including clergymen, and merchants, pool off their coats and aid in the work. At the end of a couple of days the town is threaded by well gravelled streets which keep them in good condition for the next twelve months.

We do not know what the townsfolk do to reciprocate the assistance rendered them by the residents of the rural district, but it is a safe bet that any time the farmers are up against a situation of help they will be the first to offer it. The townfolk of Craig can be relied upon to rush to their aid.

It is this kind of spirit that makes the world a better place to live in and that brings material results as well as those otherwise be unobtainable.—Farmers' Sun.

Urges Farmers To Advertise

Should Co-Operate In Marketing Efforts Says Connecticut Man

Co-operative advertising by farmers was urged by William H. Rogers, advertising director of the Hotel Bond, of Hartford, Conn., addressing a farmers' stock meeting at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn.

An appropriate slogan for the Connecticut farmers, Mr. Rogers said, would be: "Early to bed, early to rise, market co-operatively and advertise."

Mr. Rogers said: "No sound advertising program was ever devised without a survey of the market to show whether a product is marketable. While individual advertising would probably cost a prohibitive sum, co-operative advertising could unquestionably be worked out to the advantage of the Connecticut farmer."

Exhibits Held Up

U.S. Customs Hold Up Grain Exhibits Of Alberta Government

Some active and active employees of the United States customs services have thrown a monkey wrench, figuratively speaking, into the programme of the Alberta Government in connection with the series of Alberta exhibits to eight mid-state fairs. The collection of grain and other products with accompanying illustrative material was shown at the poultry congress at Ottawa, and which was then shipped in two sections for use at Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska exhibitions, has been held up somewhere on the border, and the customs man has said it must not go over. If this value stands the exhibit must not be any Alberta displays in the mid-state fairs.

"Why do you drink so much water, Everett?" asked a mother of her five-year-old son.

"You just won't have so much to wash me with," replied the youngster.

A man who is satisfied with his job never reaches the top of the ladder.

E. P. Ranch Has Become A Distinct Factor in the Pure Bred Livestock Industry of the West

Expert Agricultural Information

Many Publications Issued Annually To Disseminate Practical Knowledge

Lord Baron is recorded as saying that reading is not a full meal. "That being so, the farmers of Canada have every opportunity to become such. Every practical farmer and every agricultural college is in its quota of publications annually in addition to the large number published from the Department at Ottawa. During the past year the Department farm system alone was responsible for thirteen bulletins, seven pamphlets, seven circulars and four special publications, making a total of 31. The bulletins referred to are: Bulletin of the Department of Agriculture, No. 1, on the raising of sheep and swine in Central Alberta, to the prevalence of plant diseases, to crop rotation and soil management in Eastern Canada, to wintering hogs, to preserving fruit and vegetables in the house, the genera of seed potatoes, the cultivation of the strawberry, in Canada, and gave standard descriptions of beets and carrots. The pamphlets dealt with bird fairs, raspberry diseases, fleshy animal pastures, breeding and feeding the market hog, producing clean milk, legume inoculation and apple scab. The circulars referred to household preservation of eggs, mushroom culture, feeding a farmers' flock, wintering hogs, market varieties suitable to Quebec, the dairy carrot in Quebec, and growing alfalfa on range land in Saskatchewan and Alberta. The special publications, which like all the others can be had free on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, were a guide to the projects of the Dominion Departmental farms, the story of the experimental farms, a treatise on mushrooms and mushrooms, and why alfalfa should be grown and how to grow it. To all these were added reports for the year from every one of the thirty branch farms, stations and substations, and of course from the Division of the Farm System.

The value of this would have been obvious, however, had the valuable animals been confined to the royal ranch, but the acquisition of a class of animals he had scarcely before never been possible for the Western Canadian farmer. Through local and provincial sales of livestock industry has been disseminated throughout Western Canada, elevating the standing of the livestock industry of that territory and making it a distinct factor in the cattle and sheep industry, and in the pure bred livestock industry.

A Prince Edward county farmer placed a broody hen on a setting of dairy calves, but unfortunately the hen died before the chickens were due to hatch. Whether the chickens had already been counted or not is not known, but when any event, the problem confronting the farmer was solved by buying two hocks, one on each side of the nest, through the bottom of the box in which it was placed. Then a rooster was placed on the eggs with his legs through these two holes, and the hen and rooster together below. By this means the rooster was compelled to complete a task greatly beneath his dignity as a father of the household, and the hen was kept sitting on the eggs until he became the proud and only parent of a fine brood of chicks, following which they were placed under the care of a foster mother.

Prince Edward County Farmer Saved From Bad Of Chickens

There is a good story concerning Miss Vesta Victoria, the model hairdresser. A certain Englishman was inquiring with a well known American society woman in New York. The Englishman said that a plan needed for English model hair, and the guest happened to refer to Vesta Victoria.

"Any relation to the late Queen Victoria?" asked the hostess in all earnestness.

"No, no such as a royal hair but as a real Western Canadian rancher with a definite standing among the aristocrats of that territory."

Tuneless Planes Coast

Eight tonne of the country's planes are always out on the coast. Charles Dehmann, of Chicago, told delegates to the National Association of Steam Tugmen at New York. He asserted that about $500,000,000 of the $900,000,000,000 annually for musical education was this wasted. Dehmann said that a piano needed five tuning and that when it got out of tune the musical ear did likewise.

The picturesque ranch in the foot hills country of Southern Alberta which played into world prominence eight years ago, because it took the fancy of the royal heir, is no longer to be regarded as the mere hobby of a young man in a position to indulge his taste, but as a practical establishment with an essential place in the agriculture of Western Canada. The Prince of Wales came to Western Canada this year as a real Western rancher who is playing his part in the development of the territory's first industry.

That from the very first the Prince of Wales regarded the P.E. Ranch as no passing fancy would appear to be clear. The first practical step H.R.H. Highness took was to immediately appoint a capable ranch manager, a man of outstanding reputation in the agricultural circles of Alberta. The next was to make arrangements for the transfer from the United Kingdom of some of the best livestock—horses, cattle, and sheep—in that country. Every year, since similar importations have been made.

The effect of this has been striking and far-reaching. The animals imported were, in the main, superior to those existing in Western Canada, where the building up of a purebred stock industry has been a slow and laborious process. Exhibited at Western fairs they caused general enthusiasm and ranked high among prize winners. Going further, they added to the national shows at Toronto they secured high awards. They were a most important factor in the international and attracted considerable attention. Clearly a decidedly new element had been introduced into Western Canada's livestock industry.

The value of this would have been obvious, however, had the valuable animals been confined to the royal ranch, but the acquisition of a class of animals he had scarcely before never been possible for the Western Canadian farmer. Through local and provincial sales of livestock industry has been disseminated throughout Western Canada, elevating the standing of the livestock industry of that territory and making it a distinct factor in the cattle and sheep industry, and in the pure bred livestock industry.
